Special Hearing To Review Field Pricing Of Natural Gas

Premier Peter Lougheed announced recently a special hearing to review field pricing of natural gas by the Alberta Energy Resources Conservation Board. It is noted that such a review has not before been undertaken in Alberta.

"The Alberta government has a responsibility to determine whether Alberta is receiving maximum benefit from the marketing of its natural gas outside the province and has decided that the matter requires detailed review. We are therefore asking the Alberta Energy Resources Conservation Board which administers the legislation dealing with extra-provincial marketing of natural gas, to call a special hearing as soon as possible on the whole matter of field pricing of natural gas."

The government is specifically asking the Board for the following:

- (a) Factors which influence field prices for natural gas and their suitability in the Alberta public interest;
- (b) The pricing provisions of present contracts for the sale of natural gas outside the province and their suitability in the Alberta public interest;
- (c) Present and anticipated field prices of natural gas in Alberta.

After building a campfire, they roasted wieners and served hot coffee and salt around and told some enjoyable tales. All returned home before darkness fell and thinking about their next safari.

bertha and their suitability in the Alberta public interest;

(d) Possible modifications or alternatives to current practice affecting field price which would enhance the benefit to all residents of the province.

The government has requested this review by the Board under the advisory provisions of the Energy Resources Conservation Act of the province. The government is concerned whether or not the people of Alberta, through their government, are receiving a sufficient return for the sale of this depleting natural resource under current and contemplated market conditions in North America.

It should be noted that this special hearing in no way replaces nor should it be confused with the government's plans for a public hearing through the legislature of a new review of oil and gas royalties.

During the early morning hours of Saturday, January 15, nine business establishments in the town of Blairmore were forcibly entered and approximately a total of $400 was stolen.

In each case entry was gained by smashing of a window in the front entrance. The tills were broken into and the cash removed. Businesses unlawfully entered were: Grant Hall Pharmacy; House of Cards; Edson's Order Office; Zak's Radio and TV; Cato's Groceries; Aldo's Furniture; Steadman's; F. M. Thompson Co. The rate of Criminal Code offences per 100,000 citizens rose 9.1 per cent to 5,564.4 and the actual number of offences was 1,093,838.

Montreal, where terrorists kidnapping led to use of the War Measures Act in October 1970, had the second lowest crime rate among the 12 cities, with 4,992.3.

Alberta Brand Inspection Changes

Effective January first, all British Columbia cattle arriving at Alberta markets for resale will be inspected for brands and charged a 20 inspection fee. This will affect the "order-buyer" and not the beef producer directly.

The new order applies to all cattle going to Alberta sale markets but not to those arriving directly at Alberta packing plants where a slaughter permit or a B.C. inspection certificate.

For a number of years the Livestock Brand Division of the Alberta and British Columbia Departments of Agriculture enjoyed a reciprocal agreement whereby each province recognized the other's Livestock Brand Inspection Certificates. This meant that, although Brand Inspections were made by each province on incoming cattle, no inspection fees were charged.

Alberta is now terminating this agreement effective January 1, 1972.

A. L. Kirby, Recorder of Brands B.C., states that Alberta has recently adopted a new Livestock Brand Inspection Act which requires a more positive approach to identify cattle going into feedlots or from one market to another.

The Department of Agriculture officials feel that, if they do not supply the purchasers with the brands on the cattle, they would be returning to their markets at a future date without any record of where they originated.

Alberta is now terminating this agreement effective January 1, 1972.

The chief function of the family council is to focus matters of common family interest and agree

Community Library Elect New Slate Of Officers

The annual meeting of the Coleman Community Library was held on Monday, January 17.

The reports by the treasurer and librarian, indicate that the library had a very successful year. The total receipts for 1971 — $1,159.00, total receipts for 1971 — $1,159.00, balance December 31, 1971 — $657.95.

Donations and grants were received from the CWL, OROP, RPOE, UMWA, Legion Ladies Auxiliary, Town of Coleman and Government of Alberta. Thanks are extended to the organizations of Coleman and the town of Coleman for their generous donations.

The librarian indicated that there was a drop in circulation over the last year. The highest circulation was in 1966 — 4,904 books were taken out. In 1971, the circulation was only 1,710. The drop was probably due to the enlargement of school libraries. There are 161 members in the library, consisting of 44 adults, 95 juniors and 18 high school students and pensioners.

The library began a hospital library service in 1971 which is working most successfully. There are 60 books in circulation in the hospital. This number may be increased when the new hospital

B.C. Rates High

British Columbia had the highest rates of murder, manslaughter, rape, break and entry, theft over $50 and petty theft of all the provinces. Alberta led in the rate of assault, motor vehicle theft, possession of stolen goods and fraud.

Ontario was highest in three categories—wounding, gambling and betting and prostitution.

Saskatchewan had the highest attempted murder rate.

Manitoba led in the rate of sexual offences other than rape, and in possession of offensive weapons.

Quebec, meaning Montreal, was supreme in robbery.

Offences reported by police as murder—the charge is often reduced to manslaughter by the time it gets to court—numbered 430 in 1970 against 342 in 1969 and 314 in 1968.

Preventive Social Services

Each family develops its own way of dealing with problems that effect the whole family. In some families the husband and wife discuss the situation and then make a decision and the rest of the family has to comply with that decision. Sometimes where one of the parents is stronger than the other, he or she will make the decision which effects the whole family. Thus a father who does not see his role around the home as anything much more than the one who provides the income, may push the responsibility on to the mother for making those important decisions that effect the whole family. Or, the father who tells his kids, "Only you are 18, as long as you are in my house, you'll do as I say." Obviously in that family the father is the one who makes the decisions and the rest of the family has better agree, or there is going to be trouble. And quite often in this situation there is trouble.

But there is another way far healthier I think than the ways I have mentioned above and that is approaching problems and arriving at decisions through what someone has called the "family council."

Whatever system you use in your family for meeting the problems that arise, everyone from time to time runs into some snag and they need some help. They need someone that they can talk over with their problems. Someone outside the family. This person might be a close friend, a colleague, a clergyman, a doctor, or a family counsellor.

Preventive Social Service offers a family counselling service that is available to every resident of the Pass. There is a fee for this service.

There is always "election talk." People speculated that there would be one in late 1970, after the October crisis, and also that there would be one in late 1971. It is popular now to say that it will be in the coming spring or the following autumn.

Contrary to what some people will tell you, I, as an M.P. on the government side, have no "inside information" as to when an election may be called. I can only speculate with everyone else.

During the early stages of debate on the Government's tax reform bill, several Opposition spokesmen accused the government of "over-reaction." They said that the government wanted to give the people of Canada all the higher exemptions and tax reductions in the bill, then call a quick election to cash in on the popularity that would ensue.

Here, ironically it was then, that these same people tried to deny the passage of all or parts of that bill. On one hand, they were accusing the government of over-reaction.

It costs over $4,000 a year to keep a broken family on welfare. If, through counselling a family can be kept together, the taxpayer has saved $4,000. Counselling does prevent family breakdowns.

Blairmore Pee Wee Wins 6-4

In an exhibition game at Blairmore last Sunday, Fernie scored 6-4 over Coleman. Fernie scorers were Darren Gligotti, two, Gelan Smith and Paul Hughes.

Grant Made To Crownest Pass Regional Recreation Board

OTTAWA — A $39,195.00 Local Initiatives Program grant to the Crownest Pass Regional Recreation Board was announced recently by Allen Sulatycky, Member of Parliament for Rocky Mountain and Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources.

Changes Will Affect Non-Resident Hunting Of Trophy Animals

The Honorable Dr. Allan A. Warrack, Minister of Lands and Forests, has announced several changes which will affect non-resident hunting of trophy sheep and moose in Alberta.

The N.W.T. rates of attempted murder, sexual offences including rape, wounding, assault and robbery were far higher than in any of the provinces.

The Yukon led in rates of breaks and entry, all theft categories, fraud, and possession of offensive weapons.

The territories together had 12 murders, more than New Brunswick, Newfoundland or P.E.I. combined and almost as many as Nova Scotia's 13.

The territories together had 12 murders, more than New Brunswick, Newfoundland or P.E.I. combined and almost as many as Nova Scotia's 13.

Changes in the license fee for the special non-resident moose license are being considered.

There will be no changes with regard to the guiding industry in 1972. Guides and outfitters will be allowed to operate in the same manner as in previous years.

All licensed guides will be notified by letter of the procedures to be followed.

Mr. Sulatycky made the announcement on behalf of the Honourable Olin Lantz, Minister of Manpower and Immigration, who is responsible for the program.

The project to be undertaken will provide 27 new jobs in the Crownest Pass and will involve the construction of an open air swimming pool. Mr. Sulatycky said he was pleased with the approval of this project because it will mean that a much needed facility will finally be realized in the Crownest Pass.

Under the Local Initiatives Program, a non-profit organization or group of private citizens, or a municipal or territorial government may obtain a federal grant of up to $50,000 to create projects which provide substantial new employment and which have a significant effect on the overall betterment of a community. The program is administered by the Department of Manpower and Immigration as part of the federal government's overall Special Employment Plan.

George L. Hopkins Appointed General Manager

George L. Hopkins has been appointed general manager of the Alberta Co-operative Ltd., with offices in Calgary.

His appointment was announced by President Ian Macdonald, of Fairview, Alberta. Mr. Hopkins succeeds George Winkler who retired late last year.

Mr. Hopkins has been with the livestock co-operative since 1960, and was manager at the time of his promotion.

Remakes Course

There is probably no satisfaction equal to the thrill of making something out of nothing. It takes only a little imagination, time, and patience to turn lemons into profits.

I trust you are wondering what on earth I'm talking about? I'm informing you of an upcoming Remakes Course.

WHEN: — Blairmore — Frank Community Hall — Tuesday, February 8 — 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.
— Pincher Creek — M.D. Building — Friday, February 11 — 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Purpose of the Remakes Course:
To offer ideas for using old garments. To teach techniques for re-creating a used garment to make a new garment. To provide motivation to "do something" with out of style and poorly fitted clothes.

The extent of the course depends on your needs. If you wish to start on a remake, you should come to the course with the fabric clean, pressed and ready to lay the pattern. If you wish to get ideas for using old garments, bring the garments and you will get started on a remake. You may get the fabric cut, but may not have time to sew.

Equipment to Bring to the Course:
Garment to be remade; pattern, or another simple-style garment to be used as a pattern; sewing machine; sewing equipment; a few pieces of newspaper or brown paper.

Selecting and Preparing a Garment:
Select a garment you wish to remake into another garment. Check for badly worn areas. Unless worn areas can be avoided when cutting the fabric, decide whether it could be used as the right side of the remade garment.

Be sure the fabric is suitable for the garment you wish to make.
Avoid using an "adult" fabric for a child's garment.

Carefully rip the garment apart.
Brush well to remove lint. Wash or dryclean as needed. Save the facings, interfacing, lining, pockets, etc.

Press well.
Select a pattern, or another simple garment that you wish to use as a pattern. If you are making a similar type of garment such as a child's coat from an adult's coat, select a pattern that is similar in style to the original garment.

Editorially SPEAKING

Valuation Day - What It Means To You

Although "Valuation Day" (or "V Day" as it has come to be called) will not be remembered in history as long as D-Day or V.E.-Day or V.J.-Day, for the moment it is causing some consternation among Canadian taxpayers. Despite all the analyses and press articles about the capital gains tax and Valuation Day, many Canadians will not be affected. In fact, for the majority of people, no immediate action need or should be taken. However, it is in everyone's interest to understand what Valuation Day is and why they should do about it.

VALUATION DAY ITSELF

The principle of Valuation Day is simple: since Canada now proposes to introduce capital gains taxation into its tax system, some kind of special provision is necessary to avoid taxing gains which took place before the introduction of the capital gains tax. To do otherwise, would be to engage in retroactive taxation. There must, therefore, be a date where the value of property owned by a taxpayer is established so as to permit measurement of the gains from that day forward.

On the assumption that the fairest method would be to announce Valuation Day after the day has passed, the Government has provided for two valuation dates; one in relation to publicly traded securities and the other in relation to any other assets. These dates must be after June 18, 1971 and may be before or after the proposed tax legislation becomes law. Thus the much-anticipated "Valuation Day" should probably be referred to as "Valuation Days", although nothing requires that the two valuation days be on different dates.

It may be that Valuation Day has already passed. Most experts, however, feel that Valuation Day will be on or very close to the day on which the new system commences. Despite the fact that Valuation Day may already have passed, gains realized as a result of transactions prior to December 31st, 1971, will not be taxable.

WHAT WILL BE TAXABLE

In general, the new Capital Gains Tax will be calculated on one-half of net capital gains realized (and sometimes assumed to be realized as will be seen below) in a taxation year. In determining taxable income, capital losses will be allowed as a deduction.

Capital Gains Tax is normally payable only when a gain is realized. In certain circumstances, however, the tax authorities may treat the taxpayer as if a capital gain had been realized. For example, when a person dies, leaves the country or makes a gift, the capital gains tax will be applied as if the property has been sold. No tax, however, would be payable on property gifted or passing on death to a husband or wife.

Capital Gains will be measured by comparing sale proceeds to the higher of cost or Valuation Day value and losses by a comparison to the lower of cost or Valuation Day value. This creates what is known as the "tax free zone." This means that property can increase in value after Valuation Day, and yet be disposed of without capital gains tax, provided the actual cost was greater than the proceeds of the sale. For example, an asset with a value of $7,500.00 on Valuation Day, with an original cost of $10,000.00, and sold for less than $10,000.00 would be subject to Capital Gains Tax.

VALUATION OPTIONS

If the above tax free zone would not be advantageous, taxpayers will have the alternative of calculating capital gains and capital losses, on assets, owned on December 31, 1971, as if original cost and value on Valuation Day were the same. This alternative must be formally made for all assets prior to filing the first income tax return after the 1971 tax year for a year in which there was a disposal of any asset subject to capital gains tax. If no assets, which would be subject to capital gains tax were sold until 1976 for example, then this option need not be made until the return is made for that year.

The significance of this option is best seen by means of an example. Suppose a taxpayer owns a portfolio containing two securities, both common stocks in companies A and B respectively.

	Company A (100 shares)	Company B (50 shares)
Cost	$ 12	$ 15
Valuation Day	18	24
Price sold, after V Day	22	10
Tax Free Zone Basis
Gains (Losses)	$100	$(250)
	($4 gain x 100 shares)	($5 loss x 50 shares)
Net Gain—$150
Valuation Day Value Basis
Gains (Losses)	$100	$(250)
	($4 gain x 100 shares)	($14 loss x 50 shares)
Net Gain—$0
Net Loss—$300

In this example, it would be to the taxpayer's advantage to choose the option of using the Valuation Day value basis. However, it should be remembered that the option does not apply to a separate class of assets, such as an investment portfolio, but must be made in respect to all assets. Therefore, the taxpayer would have to consider what had happened since Valuation Day and what was likely to happen in the future to the value of all other assets, including listed personal property (described below) before taking this option.

SPECIFIC ITEMS

Generally speaking, any asset which is now worth more than $1,000 or may in the future be sold for more than $1,000 will be subject to a capital gains tax.

One important exception is that again on the disposal of a taxpayer's principal residence will not be subject to tax. However, all other real estate including summer cottages will be subject to capital gains tax.

Farmers disposing of a farm including farm land may deduct from any capital gain an amount of $1,000 for each year in which the farm was owned.

Fernie Rangers Tighten Hold On League Lead; Defeat Grands 11-7

Fernie Rangers Saturday night took their revenge on Coleman Grands, the only team to have defeated the Rangers in this season's ABCM League regular play, and downed the Grands 11-7.

The game, played in Fernie Saturday night, saw Coleman notch the first two goals, one at 3:26, the other at 4:55. The Rangers started slowly, but scored twice to end the period with a 2-2 tie. Fernie marksmen were Gary Haigh, who scored at 10:56 on a pass from Graf, and playing coach F. Rayman who scored at 13:35. Both goals were scored when the Grands were a man short.

Gene Taylor, Eric Honeyman and the Reno Anselmo scored in the early minutes of the second to give the Rangers a strong lead. Coleman scored at 10:33, but a goal by Fred Churla at 12:15 nullified that. Second period score was Fernie 6, Coleman 3.

The Rangers kept up the pressure going into the third and rammed home three more goals in the early minutes of the period giving them a six-goal lead. Barry Anselmo, Gary Marcer and Jack Little were the Rangers marksmen.

The visitors gained momentum in the period and managed four goals, but two other Ranger goals kept the home club well ahead. E. Haldy and K. Graf added the pair to the Rangers' total.

give love

While a child awaits adoption, or his parents' reconciliation, he is a ward of the province. It takes an uncommon amount of love to take a neglected, frightened child into your heart during this troubled time.

The Department of Social Development's "Parents For a While" program consists of people, your neighbors, colleagues, friends. "Parents For a While" are mature persons who respond to the challenge of giving love, understanding, and security to troubled youngsters who need it desperately. They accept and love children who have not yet learned to love. To these people, helping a young life in crisis is more important than considerations of physical disability, non-age discrimination, or race.

EDITORIAL . . . from Page Three

If the farmhouse was his principal residence, he may treat it and appropriate surrounding property as such and pay only on the gain from the sale of the farmland itself.

Property owned primarily for the personal use or enjoyment of an individual or his family ("personal use property") is taxable only if the cost of the property or the proceeds of its sale are more than a thousand dollars. In this case, the gain is taxed only to the extent that the proceeds of a sale exceed one thousand dollars. A special class of personal use property called "listed personal property" (which is defined as meaning prints, etchings, drawings, paintings, sculptures or other similar works of art, jewellery, rare folios, manuscripts or books, stamps or coins) is treated according to special rules as to limiting and averaging the deductibility of capital losses. Losses on the sale of personal use property such as automobiles, which is not listed personal property, are not allowable.

What To Do About Valuations
It would appear that almost every citizen has an interest in knowing the value on Valuation Day of all of his assets of any substantial value other than his principal residence. If he owns a summer cottage, an oil painting worth more than $1,000 or an antique sterling silver service which has been handed down from his grandfather, he may, if he ever sells or is deemed to have sold any of these assets, become subject to the tax collector's scrutiny.

The question is: should he run out and find the nearest expert valuator for the class of assets concerned and obtain a valuation? It is clear that the law does not require such valuations to be obtained and it is not part of the Government's intention to create a field day for professionals qualified at certifying values.

A number of rules of thumb can be established in reply to this question:

- 1) Don't have assets valued which are unlikely to appreciate or depreciate substantially from Valuation Day or which are unlikely to be disposed of. The law entitles taxpayers to calculate backwards after a sale, to what the value must have been on Valuation Day, and there will be time enough to employ experts.
- 2) If you are determined to have a valuation made of a particular piece of property (due to special circumstances existing around Valuation Day which may affect the value of the property concerned and this circumstance might not be easily established after the fact) remember that the valuation is only as good as the reputation and expertise of the valuator.

In some fields of endeavour, it is necessary to obtain a licence or to pass a qualifying examination before holding oneself out to be an expert. Even credentials may not be a guarantee that the valuation will stand up if questioned by that of other experts.

3) While the value is supposed to be that on Valuation Day, most articles involved for the average taxpayer do not appreciate or depreciate so quickly that valuations made even considerably after the fact cannot easily be related to the value on Valuation Day.

4) Certain kinds of property, of which listed securities are the best example, value themselves by quotations or other published values.

5) It is customary to carry insurance on assets of any material value and the amount of insurance coverage is perhaps evidence of value.

6) Valuations of private companies involve a number of special considerations and advice should be sought individually for each case.

Basically then, taxpayers will be well-advised not to get galvanised into action by the imminence of Valuation Day — and perhaps be tied to an expression of value on that date which they may regret with hindsight — but rather to allow Valuation Day to become part of our revenue-gathering lore with quiet equanimity and to deal with the tax collector when the time comes.

What we mean by "Together we're both stronger."

First, let's set the stage. And, let's start with you. You grow up. You set certain goals for yourself. And then, after some time, along come the little you's. And with them, a whole new set of goals. A home, a car, maybe a cottage. You want the good things. And, seeing that you work hard for your money, why not?

But, where do we fit in? Well, we feel two heads are better than one. We figure if two people set out to achieve the same goals, they might come a little sooner. And easier.

You see, we're in the money business. We invest money to make money, so that we can lend you money. But all of it isn't worth a plugged nickel if somebody doesn't use it, or our services, or our facilities.

No, we're not trying to talk you into a loan or a deposit. It's not like that. We feel these things will come naturally with what we have to offer. And that offer is this: a working partnership in achieving goals. Your goals, and our goals. Let's call it something like, "Us, You & Son. We know you work hard for your money. We understand things don't come easy. For any of us.

And that's what we mean by "You and the Commerce. Together we're both stronger". Because together, we are.
